Innovative Concierge Medicine

What is concierge medicine?

Concierge medicine is a modern and innovative solution for ensuring optimal well-being. At Dedication Health, we eliminate the frustrations and constraints of a traditional patient-doctor relationship.

Our premium services and expert physicians tailor your healthcare experience to deliver a comfortable and attentive partnership. Each Dedication Health patient has the opportunity to receive on-demand attention from our doctors and staff, in and outside our offices.

Jonathan Williams, DO

“My approach to patient care, combined with my professional experience, allows me to better understand what patients are feeling and identify their greatest concerns. I take the time to listen carefully, understand the full picture of their symptoms and experiences, and use that insight to help dissect the underlying issues contributing to their condition.”

Dr. Jonathan Williams is board certified in Gastroenterology. He completed fellowship training in Gastroenterology, Hepatology, and Nutrition at Loyola University Medical Center and has extensive experience providing consultations and endoscopic procedures for a wide range of digestive health concerns. In addition, Dr. Williams serves as a Clinical Assistant Professor at the University of Chicago’s Pritzker School of Medicine.
